

The magnetic field of a planet is produced by

- a) magnetized iron inside the planet, which mimics a bar magnet.
- b) the solar wind captured by the planet.
- c) electric currents in a solid, conducting region inside the planet.
- d) electric currents in a liquid, conducting region inside the planet.