

How was the dwarf planet Pluto discovered?

- A. by using Newton's Laws to account for the deviations from uniform orbits of Uranus and Neptune
- B. by infrared telescope
- C. by Voyager spacecraft cameras
- D. by searching through photographs for an object that appeared to move relative to the background stars